

LEADING THE LEADERS: How to Get Leadership Team Members to Reach Higher Levels of Excellence and Responsibility

Michael Brandwein

Question: What do senior members of a leadership team (team leaders, program directors, lead instructors, assistant directors, and others) need from us to keep growing, be motivated, and feel they are benefitting from their work in our organization?

Answer: These are the responses to that question from about 50 experienced directors of summer camps who attended my “Leading the Leaders” workshop at the American Camp Association Southeastern Conference in Tampa, Florida in September of 2011. The categories that you see here are my own, created to organize the responses that were provided. I have also noted in parentheses the number of times an exact word or phrase was used. (A few responses have not been included here because they seem to answer a different question, which would be “What do the senior team members need themselves?”)
